3. We adhere firmly to the American policy. under whose operation unexampled prosperity and thrift have blessed the land, and hold that env changes to be made in the tariff laws should be made by the friends of those laws, and in the interest of protection of labor on our own soil and of home markets, not by or in the interest of free trade propagandists not for the benefit of foreign producers and foreign labor. National taxatten should be so adjusted as to raise revenue sufficient for an economic and wise administration of the government, for the payment of the public debt for the development of national resources and for national defense: but any reduction should be so made as not to impair the prosperity of home industries. American markets must be preserved to the products of American labor and capital, and protected from foreign encroachments.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND and Mrs. Cleve land leave the national capital this morning on an extended tour to the northwest, west, and south. The NATIONAL REPUBLIcan believes and hopes that the President will be greeted everywhere he travels by the American people with the utmost respect and cordiality. The Presidential office of these United States is the most exalted position among the rulers of the earth. The custom established by many of our Presidents of visiting the people of all sections of the republic during their term of office is a most excellent one. In the case of President Cleveland it is absolutely neces sary, in the best interests of all the people, that he should make this extensive journey. Our citizens will find in the President : natu al, plain-mannered man, anxious to learn the truth, a close observer, with a retentive memory. When matters are prerented to him he will give considerate attertice, and oftentimes put very direct questions, which touch the marrow of the subject. It will be well for the people to avail themselves of every proper opportu-President the urgent necessity for the expansion of the currency and the destructive effect of his contraction policy upon all

The Policy of Contraction. The administration of President Cleve land has from its beginning had no defi nite policy, save upon two subjects, and they are so intimately connected that on many things they are one. These subjects are "the finances" and "the tariff,"

The policy as to finances has been con-traction. Even before his inauguration, on the 24th of February, 1885, President Cleveland wrote a letter to Gen. A. J. Warner and other members of the House of Repre sentatives, advising them to repeal the law which directed the expenditure of $2,000,000, and authorized the expenditure of $4,000,000 every month in the purchase of silver bullion to be coined into silver dol-

In his first message to Congress Preside nt Cleveland restated his ideas upon this subject, but left it to his Secretary of the Treasury-his chosen friend and most intimate counselor-Mr. Daniel Manning, to fully discuss in his first report to Congress the questions of finance and the tariff. Secretary Manning discharged that duty further depression by a scaling down of the purchasing power of every so-called dollar paid into the hand of toil. From these im pending calamities it is surely a most patriotic and grateful duty of the representatives of the in a most elaborate manner, and, as every one knows, expressed the views of the administration. In this report Mr. Manning denounces the currency system as one of "disorder," and of the grand policy which has built up our manufactories, diversified the industries of the country, and paid to the American workingman the highest wages ever paid to labor, Mr. Manning says: "And so the belief has spread * * therefore sent $1,000,000 in gold to the Union Bank of London, there to await that the mixture of private jobs and past public needs in our tariff is a system of pro tection to American labor." don, and at a cost of $34,000 recover

Mr. Manning gives twenty pages of hi these pages are devoted to enforcing the endation of President Cleveland in his letter to Mr. Warner, that silver colnage should be abolished. He says :

The disorders of our currency chiefly arifrom the operation of two enactments:

1. The act of Feb. 28, 1878, which has be

It is mere twaddle to talk of gold as "the sole (ife blood of a nation". It is no more important to keep gold coin in the country than to keep silver coin, provided the silver is of legal tender and sufficient in amount to perform all the functions of needed money, as in France, where the currency, per capita, is about twice as much as in the United States. No considerable amount of gold coin goes abroad except to any balances, and with a reserve of loral construed as a permanent appropriation for perpetual treasury purchases of at least $24.000,000 worth of silver per annum, although from causes mostly foreign that metal is now of mutable and falling value, which must be manufactured into coins of unlimited legtender and issued to the people of the United States as equivalents of our monetary unit. 2. The act of May 31, 1878, which indefinitely pay balances, and with a reserve of legs tender silver circulated by notes, the shipmen of gold would cause no more panic than the shipment of wheat.

posiponed fulfillment of the solemn pleds (March 18, 1869) not only of "redemptio also of "payment" of all the obligations of the United States not bearing interest, legalized as $346,000,000 paper money of unlimited legal tender, and required the post-redemption issue and reissue of these promises to p equivalents of our monetary unit.

Mr. Manning practiced his policy of con traction and Mr. Fairchild has continued it, because it is the settled policy of the administration, and the only question except as before stated, the tariff, upon which it has a settled and defined policy.

The attempt has been made by the administration and its friends to hold the Re- convention, our sliver dollar would not be fully publican party responsible for its contraction policy, by claiming that it is the result of laws made by Republicans. But this is of pold, so long as there is an ample currency of legal tender silver. Hoarded gold pays no interest, and gold owners are not in-Previous Republican a Iministrations lived under these laws, and there was no gorging of money in the treasury, nor was there a continuous contraction. The Republicans administered the law in the interest of the whole people, not in that of a few favored individuals. The laws were not looked upon as being as inflexible as those of the Medes and Per-slans, but the spirit, as well as the letter, was considered in their application to the business of the country.

One of the best evidences of what the administration has done in the way of contraction is to turn to page 12 of the first volume of the report of the Secretary of the Treasury for 1885. There the statement is made: Cash in treasury, $379,105,353, and then to look at the monthly statement of the public debt for the 1st of Septem ber, 1887. There we find: "Total cash by treasurer's statement, $393,960,849," Tals shows that in thirty months the enormous sum of $213,900,495 has been crowded into the treasury vaults by this policy of con-

But there is another even as strong as this. The law, passed by a Democratic Hou and a Republican Senate and approved by Republican President, made obligatory the expenditure of $2,000,000 for silver bullion to be converted into coin, and it authorized the expenditure of $4,000,000 for that purpose. Only $3,000,000 each mouth was expended under Republican rule, be cause there was sufficient currency for the needs of the people. When this adminis tration was inaugurated there was over $315,000,000 national bank notes in circula tion. But the bankers, justly distrusting the ability of the Democrate to administer the finances of the government, have withdrawn in the thirty mo the of this administration over $100,000,000 of that sum. A Republican President and a Republica Secretary of the Treasury would, under these circumstances, seeing this contraction, have purchased silver to the full limit of the law, thus replacing with $75,000,000 of silver certificates that much of the bank notes withdrawn. But this administration refuses to do it. Its policy is contraction. To show conclusively that even before he was inaugurated President Cleveland endeavored to influence legislation in favor of contraction, we reproduce his letter

The time has come for Congress carefully to consider the question of bers of the Forty-Eighth Congress-Gentle-MEN: The letter which I have had the honor to receive from you invites, and, indeed, ob-liges me to give expression to some grave pub-lic necessities, although in advance of the the internal revenue system and of the tarif on sugar, and the improvement of the admin-istration of our customs laws, especially in re-gard to fraudulent undervaluations. We believe in an honest ballot, both north moment when they would become the objects of my official care and partial responsibility. Your solicitude if my judgment shall have been carefully and deliberately formed is en-tirely just, and I accept the suggestion in the and south, and that every citizen should be al lowed to vote and have his vote counted. We cond mu the systematic suppression of the Re-publican vote in the southern states and the same friendly spirit in which it has been made It is also fully justified by the nature of the fluancial crisis which, under the operation of the act of Congress of Feb. 28, 1878, is now ecent unblushing election frauds in certain northern cities. The maintenance of the purity and the safety of the ballot box is and always shall be a cardinal Republican principle. lose at hand. By a compliance with the requirements of that law all the vaults of the federal treasury have been and are heaped full of sliver coins, which are now worth less than 85 per cent, of the gold dollar prescribed as the unit of value in section 14 of the act of

Feb. 12, 1873, and which, with the silver certifi cates representing such coin, are receivable for all public dues. Being thus receivable, while also constantly increasing in quantity at the rate of $28,000,000 a year, it has followed, of necessity, that the flow of gold into the treasury has been steadily diminished. Silver and silver certificates have displaced, and are now displacing, gold, and the sum of gold in the federal treasury now available for the payment of the gold obligation of the United States, and for the redemption of United States notes called greenbacks, if not already en-croached upon, is perilously near such en-croachment. These are facts which, as they do not admit of difference of opinion, call for no argument. They have been forwarded to us in the official reports of every Secretary of the Treasury from 1878 till now. They are plainly affirmed in the last December re-port of the present Secretary of the Treasury to the speater of the present House of Representatives, They appear the official documents of this Co-es and in the records of the New York clear ing house, of which the treasury is a member, and through which the balk of the receipts and payment of the federal government and of the country pass. These being the facts of our present condition, our danger and our duty to avert that danger would seem to be importance to prevent the two metals from parting company, to prevent the increasing displacement of gold by the increasing coinge of eliver; to prevent the disuse of gold in the custom houses of the United States in the daily business of the people; to prevent the ultimate expuision of gold by silver. Such a financial crisis as these events would certainly precipitate, were it now to follow upon so long a period of commercial depression, would involve the people of every city sion, would involve the people of every city and every state in the Union in a prolonged ard disastrous trouble. The revival of busi-ness enterprise and prosperity, so ardently desired and apparently so near, would be hope-lessly postponed. Gold would be withdrawn to its hoarding places, and an unprecedented contraction in the actual volume of our cur-rerev would speedily take place. Saridest of all, in every workshop, mill, factory, store and on every railroad and farm, the wages of labor, aiready depressed, would suffer still

THE platform adopted by the Democrat of New York would be a curious and in teresting study, if it were possible to make something out of nothing, but as it is not study of the platform is time thrown away. The first plank of the platform is a jumble of nonsense about the tariff. The second is a full bid for the foreign vote based upon a false statement. The third would make a borse laugh, as it indorses civil service reform. The fourth is even more provoc ative of hilarity, as it claims that the Democrats are the special friends of the soldiers. The fifth deplores the wrongs in flicted on Ireland, whilst Congressman Hewitt, the Democratic mayor of New York, apologizes to the English min-ister for the passage of a resolution through Congress in favor of home rule The others are local except the indorsement of the administration.
